ABOUT THIS HANDBOOK

This handbook is provided to facilitate your study in music. In the first part of the booklet you will note some policies that are of concern to all music students. These policies (and suggestions) are set down here to avoid the many questions and misunderstandings about "what is required" to complete your studies toward a music degree. These policies were formulated as a result of extended discussion among various music students and the music faculty, including input from MUSAC (Music Student Advisory Committee). We appreciate your cooperation in observing these policies.

In addition, you will find information regarding student employment and details regarding such topics as accompanists, juries, and recitals. Please take the time to familiarize yourself with the information included here.

As this handbook is considered an addendum to the University Bulletin (catalog), all policies stated here are considered requirements for graduation. Should you have any questions, please see the Director of the Music Program, Dr. Murphy.

Mission of the Music Program Within the University of Portland

The Music Program of the University of Portland offers undergraduate students a focused musical learning environment within the context of a comprehensive university that follows the Holy Cross tradition of education of the whole person. Music majors earn a Bachelor of Arts degree in one of four emphases— instrumental, vocal, pre-music education, or general—with the goal of breadth of general study in theory, history, and performance. The curriculum includes the University's general education core in humanities, natural science, and social science, adhering to the University's commitment to the liberal arts as the foundation of learning. The music minor provides a foundation in musicianship and performance. All University students are welcome to participate in performing ensembles, lessons, and music classes.

The full-time faculty members are committed to teaching, scholarship and creative work, and service. Teaching is primary, and it is enriched by scholarly and creative activities, as well as service to the University and community. Well-qualified professionals augment the regular faculty in classrooms, studios, and performances.

Learning Outcomes: Music Program

The Music Program at the University of Portland is designed to form musicians in three areas: performance, organization of the sounds of music, and analysis of music. Students who successfully complete the B.A. in music should be able to:

- Perform capably as a soloist.
- Perform capably within an ensemble.
- Organize the sounds of music through basic composition.
- Understand the structure and style of compositions.
- Explain theoretical and historical elements of music through prose.

Accreditation

The University of Portland is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music, 11250 Roger Bacon Drive, Suite 21, Reston, VA 20190, (703) 437-0700.

Scholarship and Grant Policies For Music Students at the University of Portland

Scholarships for Music Majors and Minors

Music majors and minors are eligible for music scholarships. These funds will be used for tuition, including the private lesson fee of $400 per semester. Incoming freshmen are given priority in awarding scholarships, but current students are eligible to apply and audition. Scholarships are renewable for up to four years assuming continued musical progress and academic progress (3.0 GPA in music courses, 2.5 overall GPA). Applicants for music scholarships must audition by presenting, in person or via recording, 7-10 minutes of music that demonstrates their technique, tone quality, and musicianship. There are other music scholarships that are awarded annually by the music faculty and the Financial Aid Office (see the list below). In addition, students may be eligible for scholarships not limited to music students. See the Financial Aid Office for details on these or any scholarship listed below.

Performance Grants for Non-Majors/Minors

UP offers Performance Grants of $800 per year to students who are not music majors or minors. Students will audition for grants by the same process used for scholarships, and they will be chosen because they will be able to make significant contributions to the ensembles. The faculty expects a high level of performing ability when offering these grants. Students will, without exception, participate in the ensemble for both semesters and take private lessons (note: voice students may be assigned to MUS 235, Group Voice Workshop, instead of private lessons in their first semester of study). Failing this, the grant will be voided. The grant covers the private lesson fee of $400 per semester. Hour-long lessons (MUS 486) must be taken; 30-minute lessons (MUS 285/485) will not be funded by the grant.

These grants are not automatically renewable. Students must apply for a grant for the following year.

For further information about all scholarships: Contact Dr. David De Lyser

Other Financial Assistance

Numerous Music Program jobs are available to students. The jobs and job requirements are listed beginning on page 30, and supervisors are listed in case you have any questions. Applications for these jobs are taken at the beginning of the fall semester. If you would like to be considered for a work study job, you must apply online through the Student Job Board.

Music Minor Program

Music minors are an important part of the Music Program at UP. They are actively involved in ensembles, lessons, and classes. To ensure the successful completion of the music minor, the following policy has been established by the music faculty.

1. Dr. Rebekah Hanson is the advisor to music minors. Minors are expected to meet with her at least annually.
2. All music minors are required to declare the minor with the College of Arts and Sciences.
3. Music minors are required to make continual progress toward completing the minor. Scholarships will be continued if minors take only one semester without music courses (or two for those in study abroad programs), but may be terminated after two semesters without music courses (three semesters for students who have been away for a year). This decision will be made by the advisor to minors.
4. Music minors are eligible for scholarships to cover the private lesson fee and some tuition. If a music minor does not receive a scholarship, the student may apply and audition for the following semester. See the section in this Handbook describing scholarships.
5. Minors receiving scholarships must be enrolled in ensembles and/or lessons for at least four semesters each.
6. Minors receiving scholarships must maintain a GPA of 3.0 in music classes and 2.5 overall.
7. Requirements for the minor have changed as of Fall 2021. Please see the information later in the Handbook for course options.

Ensemble Participation

We believe that all students become better musicians by performing with others in musical ensembles. Thus, we require that all music majors participate every term in an ensemble employing (where possible) the student's chosen solo instrument of concentration.

The following ensembles fulfill degree and/or program requirements as noted for a student who performs on the listed instrument or voice:

Instrument/voice:	Ensemble:
Brass	Wind Symphony, University Orchestra, Jazz Ensemble
Guitar	Appropriate ensemble with permission of music advisor
Keyboard	Appropriate ensemble with permission of music advisor
Percussion	Wind Symphony, University Orchestra, Jazz Ensemble
Strings	University Orchestra, Wind Symphony, Jazz Ensemble
Voice	Bel Canto, University Singers
Woodwind	Wind Symphony, University Orchestra, Jazz Ensemble

All chamber ensembles (MUS 447) fulfill the requirements for the Instrumental emphasis.

Instrumental Lesson Requirements

Practice Expectations

Instrumentalists at the University of Portland are expected to practice regularly. To achieve consistent, recognizable improvement, daily practice recommendations are as follows:

Music Majors – two hours

Music Minors – one hour

Non-Majors/Minors – 30 minutes

These times include all activities associated with lesson instruction, including practice, listening, composition, musical analysis, etc.

Repertoire Expectations

- Prepare no fewer than two pieces in contrasting styles (e.g., one slow piece and one fast piece). This can include contrasting movements of the same piece or jazz repertoire of varying styles and tempos.
- At least one of these pieces must include work with a collaborative instrument, such as piano.

Work with Collaborators

*Failure to meet any of these requirements will negatively impact a student's final semester grade.

- Students must rehearse with their collaborator(s) at least two times prior to a performance, and one rehearsal must take place before mid-semester.
- Jazz performances with a rhythm section must rehearse at least once prior to a performance with all members of the ensemble present at the rehearsal.
- Collaborative performers must have access to any needed sheet music no later than three weeks before a graded performance, with all movements to be performed clearly marked.
- Instructors should be present for at least one collaborative rehearsal or review a recording of a rehearsal before a performance. This can be a part of a student's lesson.

Jury Performances

*Failure to meet any of these requirements will negatively impact a student's final semester grade.

- Music majors and music minors will sign up for two six-minute time slots. Music minors who have fulfilled their private lesson requirements and non-majors/minors will sign up for one six-minute time slot.
- Performances by music majors and music minors fulfilling private lesson requirements will include two contrasting works, or excerpts from one work. Performances by all other students will feature one work that best demonstrates the student's abilities and progress over the course of the semester.
- All students must fill out the required repertoire sheet prior to the performance.

- Students should be prepared to share historical information for each piece and composer.
- The last two minutes of a jury will be spent demonstrating a technical exercise (e.g., scales) listed on the jury sheet. This requirement is waived for non-majors/minors.
- Jury grades will be calculated by averaging scores from the student's private lesson instructor and two other faculty members.
- Juries will count for a minimum of 10% of a student's final grade.

Music at Midweek Performances

- Music majors and minors enrolled in Music at Midweek are required to perform once during the semester.
- Program information must be submitted by the deadline given by the recital organizer.
- Performances only need to feature one work.
- Grades will be given at the discretion of the private lesson instructor (all performances will be recorded) and can factor in feedback from other faculty members.
- Performances will count for a minimum of 10% of a student's final grade.

- 4 Tuned very well. Ability to control difficult tuning situations is well developed. Excellent control of pitch in all registers. Superior listening and adjusting skills.
- 3 Tuned well. Problems sometimes occur in range and volume extremes and difficult passages and situations but are of short duration and/or quickly corrected. Listening is very good, with good ability to correct most problems.
- 2 Tuned relatively well. Intonation is often good with inconsistencies. Less demanding melodies, intervals, and harmonic structures performed successfully. Wide intervals, octaves, unisons, are with practical success. Listening is good, attempts are made to correct obvious problems.
- 1 Somewhat in tune. Intonation is inconsistent. Difficult intervals and harmonic structures are major intonation weakness. Problems are seldom corrected.

Musical expression / style

Rhythms interpreted correctly and uniformly; only minor inconsistencies. Problems occur at times during very difficult situations. Clarity and cohesiveness excellent most of the time.
- 2 Accuracy, precision, and understanding of subdivision good much of the time. Performer demonstrates good awareness of pulse and tempo, although problems occur occasionally and may be difficult to overcome. Rhythmic patterns interpreted correctly and uniformly much of the time. Problems occur with finer details of more complex rhythmic patterns and structures.

- 3 Well developed. Difficult passages are performed well with only minor flaws. Excellent concentration.
- 2 Good most of the time. Problems and breakdowns occur during difficult passages. Concentration good but occasionally inconsistent.
- 1 Fair to poor. Persistent problems. Faster, more complex passages tax the performer beyond his/her ability. Concentration seems to drift.

Tone

- 4 Superlative tone quality. Well-focused, full, open, resonant, consistent. Utmost clarity is achieved.
- 3 Excellent tone achieved most of the time. Lapses and problems infrequent, usually caused by the most demanding musical passages. Individual problems are minor and quickly corrected. Voice Area Requirements

(updated July, 2022; Please note that the Voice Area Handbook contains additional information)

Statement of Purpose for Vocal Study

The purpose of private vocal study is to develop the student's voice and musicianship by establishing foundational techniques for healthy vocal production under the careful supervision of a professional voice teacher.

The foundational techniques for healthy vocal production begin with the use of efficient technique and repertoire from musical genres that support this technique. This repertoire includes art song, folk song, jazz, opera, oratorio, and music theater. In addition to lessons, many opportunities for learning repertoire and style of performance are offered. Students are expected to take advantage of all appropriate opportunities (ensembles, shows, master classes, recitals, vocal performance workshop, lyric theater workshop etc.). Responsibility is placed on the student to apply techniques learned in the voice studio to the various singing situations and to ask questions of the voice instructor when techniques and/or instructions seem unclear.

Number of Lessons per Semester and Guidelines for Missed Lessons

- Each student is entitled to a total of 12 lessons each semester. Currently semesters have 14 weeks.
- If the instructor cancels or misses a lesson he/she is obligated to reschedule the lesson at a time of mutual convenience.
- If a lesson is missed because of a university related event, the instructor is not obligated to reschedule.
- If the student cancels or misses a lesson for any reason including illness the instructor is not obligated to reschedule.

Minimum Repertoire Guidelines for Voice Lessons

Students should realize that each voice instructor may have their own policies for figuring specific grades and these policies may contain additions to these minimum guidelines. Because of learning difficulties, health situations or vocal pathologies, a voice instructor may alter these guidelines to fit the particular needs of a student. An instructor may also increase the number of requisite pieces if a particular student needs the additions in order to remain challenged by the course.

Lessons are classes. If class is cancelled your lesson is cancelled.

Coaching with Collaborative Pianist, Susan McDaniel

Coaching are individual sessions with a collaborative pianist who helps you understand your music and the way that you interact with the accompaniment. Susan McDaniel is available for coachings (sign up on Microsoft Bookings) for all UP students enrolled in applied music lessons. You are required to meet with her a minimum of 2 times over the semester – once before fall or spring break and once afterwards. Failure to do so will result in lowering your grade by ½ letter grade for each session you fail to attend. Do not hesitate to sign up to coach with her early in the semester. Once you sign up, you will receive a confirmation email with further details/instructions related to your coaching session.

If you sign up for a rehearsal with Susan and you can NOT attend your time, you must email her at least 24 hours in advance of your appointment to let her know that you need to cancel so she can give your time to another student. Your semester grade will be lowered by half of a letter grade for each no-show you have.

Performance Class

Performance class (MUS 484) is held on Monday from 12:30 to 1:30. All those taking lessons are encouraged to register. Ad hoc performance classes will be scheduled 2 to 3 times per semester on varying weeknights prior to NATS competitions and juries.

Performance Final Examination/Juries

Performance final examinations, also known as juries, will be held on previously announced times and days during finals week. Students will be sent sign-up information at least 2 weeks in advance. Music majors and minors will sing

The examination will include the following:

- Music Minor and Majors The performance of 2 pieces chosen by jury panel from all repertoire prepared during the semester.
- Non-majors will be told which piece sing 24 hours prior to the jury. The faculty as a whole will choose the repertoire to be performed.
- Following the jury, each student will receive comments from the faculty regarding his/her progress and development as a music student.
- Failure to appear for a final examination may result in failing the entire semester's work in performance as well as dismissal from the music program.

- Students are not required to take part in performance final examinations during a semester in which they performed a Senior Capstone Recital, participated in the Honors Concert, or sang as an aria soloist with the University Orchestra or Wind Symphony.

Suggested Voice Grading Criteria

TO THE STUDENT: The fair grading of voice students is at best, a delicate and somewhat complex procedure. Teachers are faced with making an objective judgment in an area which tends to be extremely subjective. Degrees of vocal talent, practice and application, musical background, desire to learn, and student-teacher rapport, all tend to affect the judgment. The following criteria have been compiled as a guide to understanding and interpreting your voice grade. You may do well to measure your own progress against these criteria.

A and A-	Excellent	The production and control of vocal tone of distinct beauty and intensity. A very high degree of accuracy and thoroughness in musicianship. The musical performance of a significant amount of repertoire from memory, in original languages. A vocal technique showing flexibility and control, which includes convincing interpretation with correct diction and style. Continuing and marked improvement each semester.
B+ and B	Above Average	The production of very pleasant vocal tone with control and stability. An obvious concern for accuracy and awareness of musicianship. The musical performance of assigned repertoire from memory in original languages. A vocal technique showing growth in all the elements of good singing – diction, flexibility, interpretation, etc. Continuing and healthy improvement each semester.
B-, C+, C	Average	The production of acceptable vocal tone with average control. An average concern for musicianship. The performance of minimum repertoire from memory in original languages. A desire to sing acceptably showing an awareness of the elements of good singing. Generally positive learning attitudes with uneven and less-than-thorough preparation.
C-, D+, D	Below Average	Insecure production and control, and questionable tone quality. Little concern for basic musicianship. The performance of less than minimum repertoire requirements from memory in original languages. A minimum concern for basic vocal technique with little noticeable desire to sing well. Questionable learning attitudes and minimum preparation. NOTE: It is doubtful that students in this category should remain in majors requiring voice lessons.
D- and F	Unacceptable	Lack of desire to learn to sing. Lack of application and preparation. Disregard for teacher-student rapport. Failure to attend lessons. NOTE: Students in this category should definitely pursue majors not requiring voice lessons.

Honors Recital

The University of Portland's annual Honors Recital features solo performances by students selected by the faculty because of their exemplary musicianship, academic achievement, and contributions to the music life of the University. Small ensembles also will be considered. Up to six students (or groups) will be chosen after the fall performance final examinations. The length of individual performances will be determined after the selection of performers. The Honors Recital will be presented on Founders Day, a Tuesday in April. Students performing solos in the Honors Recital are not required to complete a jury during the semester of the performance.

Concerto and Aria Competition

The University Orchestra holds an annual Concerto and Aria Competition each fall semester. The Competition is open to both instrumentalists and singers. Students who are selected to perform are not required to complete a jury during the semester of the performance. The Music Program will pay for any required accompanist.

Music Program Awards

The music faculty selects students annually to receive the following awards:

Margaret Vance Outstanding Senior in Music
Musician of the Year
Vocalist of the Year
Instrumentalist of the Year Award
Shawn Riley Award for Excellence in Music & Theater

Plaques with the names of previous winners are on display in the Mago Hunt Center.

Senior Capstones

B.A. in Music

All students studying for the B.A. in Music are required to complete a capstone presentation in their senior year. This is one way of demonstrating students' development in music at the University of Portland.

Student projects will meet the following criteria:

- 1) The standard is 30-45 minutes of music held either on weekends or during Music at Midweek
- 2) Projects for B.A. majors may take the form of a research presentation, performance, lecture recital (a mix of spoken and musical presentation), a performance of the student's original compositions, or other formats approved by the faculty. Note that traditional recitals are only one acceptable option. Students in the Instrumental or Vocal emphases are expected to prepare a recital.
- 3) Students should schedule their Capstone presentation with the Director of Music, Dr. Murphy.

The project will be planned in this way:

- 1) During their junior year, students will consult with their academic advisor and private teacher(s) to determine a project that is appropriate for the student's interests and level of artistic and academic development.
- 2) That proposal, approximately one page in length, should outline your recital, organized into sets, and should include a narrative description of the presentation and a list of repertoire. This repertoire is tentative but needs to list actual pieces rather than a vague description of what type of piece will be included. The proposal is due the Monday after Spring Break to Dr. Murphy.
- 3) If that proposal is for a recital, the private teacher must give a strong recommendation. Singers must include the following:
 - Music must represent 3 different time periods and 3 different languages
 - An effort should be made in regards to cohesion of repertoire; i.e., pieces included together in a set should relate to each other in some way (time period, language, subject matter)
 - No more than one operatic aria can be included. Baroque arias are an exception to this rule.
 - 2/3 of music used in Senior Capstone Recital may be from previous semesters. 1/3 of the music must be new to the student during their senior year.

- 4) Students may be asked to meet with the faculty to discuss their proposed projects.
- 5) The music faculty will approve the plan by the end of the student's junior year.
- 6) The student will present a preview presentation for the faculty approximately one month in advance, as assigned. See further information below.
- 7) During the senior year the student will prepare for the public presentation, which normally occurs in the spring semester.
- 8) MUS 498: Senior Capstone, taken in addition to lessons (MUS 486), provides students the equivalent of one additional weekly lesson. The course is designed to help students get ready for the musical performance and any spoken presentation, as well as the writing of program notes (500 words minimum, concentrating on the music). Students may take it in either fall or spring of the senior year. Some students prefer to register for the course in the fall to have more time and to prepare ahead for the spring presentation. To register, students need a Variable Credit/Section Approval Form, signed by the chair, along with a drop/add form. These must be brought to the Registrar's Office in-person. The Registrar will create a specific section for each capstone student and teacher. Students presenting a recital may register with Susan McDaniel for their Capstone credit during the semester of their recital, or with their studio teacher. This decision is between the student and studio instructor. If two lessons a week with the studio teacher are needed, this is valid. If this is the case, the student will need to sign up for Music Coaching (MUS 485) with Susan McDaniel.

Capstone Preview

At least three weeks before the assigned date for the public presentation, the student will preview his/her senior capstone presentation for the faculty. The purpose of the preview is to ensure that the student will be ready to give their presentation on the date scheduled. Students should be at a level of preparation where the recital could be performed within a week if need be.

Previews generally last about 30 minutes. Students should bring three complete drafts of their program and a copy of their program notes (including translations and biographies) for faculty editing.

For performances, every selection should be presented as is it will be in the recital. For example, if it is to be performed from memory in the performance, it must be memorized in the preview. The student will select the first piece during the preview and the faculty will choose subsequent pieces at random.

In the case of students who are presenting original compositions or conducting performances that require the involvement of other students, one needs to have had several rehearsals on all music with a faculty member present prior to the preview. The faculty member can report on the student's progress.

Other types of capstone presentations should likewise be at a point of completion at the preview. Your capstone advisor will dictate what such previews will entail.

The faculty will make suggestions about the type of work needed in the weeks leading to the recital to make it ready for public performance. Whenever possible the student's private instructor is expected to be present for the preview.

Examples of Successful Senior Presentations

Senior presentations may take a variety of forms based on a student's skills, interests, and aptitude. Examples include: a research presentation with examples performed by the student and/or others, a performance of music composed by the student, a conducting project (requires faculty recommendation and approval), a solo recital, a chamber music performance, and other similar projects. All presentations must include some performance of live music, unless otherwise approved by the faculty.

Accompanist for Senior Presentations

Susan McDaniel plays for all senior capstones. Students must register for MUS 485 or MUS 498 with her in the semester of their presentation.

Non-Required Recitals

Recitals may be performed by seniors who are not Music majors and by junior Music majors, pending approval of music faculty. Non-required recitals must be arranged one semester in advance. A preview, consisting of the studio teacher and at least one full-time faculty member, must be given three weeks in advance of the recital, following the protocols found on pages 22-24 of the Music Program Handbook. A recital may be cancelled or denied if preparation is deemed inadequate.

Susan McDaniel will play for non-required recitals only if her schedule allows. In addition, she will establish an appropriate fee, to be paid by the student. If she is unavailable, the Music Program will help find a pianist. Again, an appropriate fee to that pianist will be the student's responsibility.

Course Waivers

Piano Proficiency

The B.A. program requires students to complete MUS 231, Piano Skills, which covers practical skills in accompanying and score reading. MUS 131 or private piano lessons are a prerequisite for MUS 231. Students may pass out of one or both of these courses with approval of the instructor.

Music Theory and Aural Skills

Students who are required to take MUS 101 and 103 may request a waiver of the courses. A placement test is given on the first day of each class to determine eligibility, represented by an 85% accuracy on each placement test. The instructor will record any waivers in the student's file in the office of the College of Arts and Sciences. Students who took AP Music Theory will receive credit dependent upon the exam's subscores: scores of 4 or 5 on the Non-Aural subsection will result in credit for MUS 101 (3 credits), and a score of 4 or 5 on the Aural subsection will result in credit for MUS 103 (1 credit). A student who did not score a 4 or 5 on one or both subsections is still able to take the placement test and possibly have the course waived (no credit awarded).
