

Generosity/Scarcity

An evening with Lola Milholland

Food-business owner, social-practice artist, and writer from Portland, Lola Milholland founded Umi Organic, a noodle company with a commitment to providing nutritious public school lunch. Last year she published Group Living and Other Recipes, an exploration of the meaning of family, home, and the role of imagination in creating sustainable relationships to each other and the world around us. Join us as she shares from her work and her thinking about the intersection of the humanities with food justice, ecology, and civic life.

Tuesday
November 4
6-7pm
University of Portland
Bookstore

Questions or ADA Accommodations? Email prf@up.edu.

This event has been made possible by the Mellon Foundation. Any views, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed in this event do not necessarily represent those of Mellon.